

Sexual Dimorphism and Gender: Implications in Toxicology and Health Research

Thursday March 29th, 2018
EI-Purpan, Toulouse

PROGRAM

- 8h00: Registration and welcome coffee - Rooms 60 & 61
- 9h00: Vassilia Théodorou, Toxalim, Toulouse - Amphitheater 65
Introduction and ESOF presentation
- 9h15: Bruno Hudry, MRC LMS Imperial College London
Keynote: Sex differences in intestinal plasticity
- 10h00: Claire Racaud-Sultan, IRSD, Toulouse
Sexual dimorphism in the regulation proliferation/survival in adult intestine stem cells in cancer and inflammation
- 10h20: Sophie Laffont-Pradines, CPTP, Toulouse
Sex differences in innate immunity
- 10h40: Coffee break / poster session - Rooms 60 & 61
- 11h10 : Sylvie Chaperon, FRAMESPA, Université Toulouse Jean Jaurès
Keynote: Feminist science studies: an overview
- 11h40: Flash communications
- 12h30: Lunch / poster session- Rooms 60 & 61
- 14h00: Pierre Gourdy, I2MC, Toulouse
Keynote: Sex differences in metabolic and cardiovascular diseases: contribution of estrogen receptors
- 14h45: Laurence Payraastre, Toxalim, Toulouse
Sexually dimorphic toxicology: impact of pesticide exposure as an example
- 14h55: Ingrid Miller, University of Veterinary Medicine Vienna, Austria
Keynote: Proteomics and the influence of gender/sex on the proteome
- 15h40: Coffee Break / poster session - Rooms 60 & 61
- 16h05: Elodie Person, Toxalim, Toulouse
Sexual dimorphism related to the expression of xenobiotic metabolizing enzymes in the context of biotransformation studies
- 16h25: Philippe Gérard, MICALIS, Jouy-en-Josas
Keynote: Gut microbiota and gender: what do we know?
- 17h10: Conclusions

